Text: COLOSSIANS 3:3

Christ has already become our life in our human spirit, but for many of us, it is not yet so in our souls.

Our souls need to be in Christ. We cannot say our soul is in Christ when sin still has dominion over us. When a believer still tells lies, commits fornication, cheats, hates, envies, is jealous, backbites, is proud (although pride has levels, but there is a level of pride the Christ-life must deal with), still harbours unforgiveness, is quick to get angry, thinks highly of himself, etc. it is evident that the soul needs to be saved.

Satan sold a condemned life to man. It is not God who condemned man; it is the life we received from the devil that condemned us. The devil is the head of those who live a condemned life, and there is no remedy for his sins. He is completely condemned. But there are men who are not yet fully condemned, but are living the condemned life.

Our Lord Jesus brought the life of the Father, which is above sin and condemnation. Anyone who lives by the life Jesus brought, lives above sin and condemnation. Jesus brought life and immortality to man. That is the life of the uncreated God, which is far above the reach of the thoughts of angels, let alone, sin. It is only as we live by the light that the Spirit of Christ supplies that we escape the corruption that is in our souls.

A believer's main business on earth is to seek how to live by the light of the Spirit of Christ and of God that eliminates the darkness in his soul. And he has to continue in the light until he gets to the place where his soul is completely enlightened, like the soul of Jesus, our Example. The life many of our parents, colleagues, neighbours, tutors, and people we see every day live is the condemned life. Many are not yet fully condemned, while some have gone far into condemnation; many are on their way to being fully condemned.

Jesus stepped in to stop our journey into condemnation, but many of us believers are not fully delivered from condemnation. Some of us are still living by the condemned life.But our eyes need to be opened to see what we are living by. There are a lot of things you will never agree with again if you see the implications of them in your soul and body.

Satan and his cohorts hate men with a passion we cannot explain. Run away from the devil by agreeing to live by what the Holy Spirit is speaking, and desire to know His will daily.
